

DR. JOHN SCHNEIDER

Having trained as an interventional pain specialist, DR. JOHN SCHNEIDER started Comprehensive Pain and Neurology Center more than a decade ago to focus on high quality headache care and pain management from the perspective of a neurologist. Since the beginnings the practice has grown to expand to 8 separate locations in middle Tennessee adding two other board certified physicians and over a dozen highly trained healthcare providers along with a licensed pain psychologist.

Headaches and chronic pain are some of the most frequent reasons for patients seeking care in the United States. Our group utilizes medically proven treatments including interventional options as well as medication management to optimize each patient's treatment plan.

During his years in clinical practice Dr. Schneider has served as an advocate for both physicians and patients through various efforts. Serving as a founding member and recent past President of the Tennessee Pain Society, working with past Governors on Tennessee initiatives to address the opioid crisis, and serving as a member on the states Chronic Pain Guidelines Committee.

The providers at CPNC focus on non-opioid treatments that have demonstrated durable benefits such as neuromodulation and radiofrequency ablation procedures. As a neurologist, Dr. Schneider is very excited about the new FDA approval for neuromodulation treatment options for painful diabetic neuropathy. "We finally have a treatment for diabetic neuropathy patients who are refractory to traditional medications!"

Most recently, Dr. John Schneider was proud to have accepted an offer to serve as the Headache/Pain Medicine faculty member on the HCA Graduate Medical Education training program in Neurology. We are currently working on accreditation for Headache Center of Excellence and initiating a fracture liaison service for compression fractures and osteoporotic patients.
